Stone cold killer 'foiled'

LOYALIST killer Michael Stone was allegedly on the verge of bombing Stormont when he was stopped by security staff.

Last night police confirmed the 49-year-old was carrying a bag with up to eight devices, a gun, left, and a knife when he was trapped shouting and screaming.

Northern Ireland Assembly members including Sinn Fein's Gerry Adams and DUP leader Ian Paisley were yards away trying to restore power-sharing.

VEIL TEACHER FINALLY FIRED

Ruling in Muslim classroom row

HIDDEN: Aishah Azmi

A MUSLIM teaching assistant suspended for refusing to remove her veil in class has been sacked.

Aishah Azmi, 24, was asked to take it off after pupils said they did not understand her because they could not see her lips move.

She refused and took school bosses to an employment tribunal, claiming racial discrimination and harassment. She lost the case but was awarded £1,100 damages for 'injury to her feelings'.

■ by JERRY LAWTON

yesterday Kirklees Council said she had been fired from her job at Headfield Church of England Junior School in Dewsbury, West Yorks.

Defend

Labour MP Shahid Malik said: "While I would absolutely defend her right to wear the veil in society it's very clear that her wearing the veil in the classroom setting inhibits her ability to support children." It emerged that Azmi was ordered to wear her veil by a cleric who taught at a mosque where two of the 7/7 bombers worshipped.

RUSSELL BRAND

ON 2 November 2006 we said that Russell Brand had been "sacked" from his BBC Radio 6Music morning show and that the show had been "axed". This was not true. While that show has ended, he now has a new Saturday evening show on BBC Radio 2, beginning at 9pm. We apologise to Russell for any embarrassment we may have caused him.

EXCLUSIVE: HOLLYOAKS BABE AIMS TO BE RIGHT ON SONG

SOAP SHOCKER:
Lisa Hunter, played by Gemma, has been drawn into the seedy world of prostitution, left, in C4 show Hollyoaks

Gemma is a Soapstar Superstar!

■ SEXBOMB Gemma Atkinson today unveils the gorgeous new look she hopes will help her win ITV's Soapstar Superstar.

The stunning blonde, 22, has announced she has signed a deal to appear on the singing talent show in January.

Gemma – who has wowed fans with her impressive boob job – has been making waves in the late-night Hollyoaks spin-off In The City. Her character

■ by GARY NICKS

Lisa Hunter has started working as a high-class hooker after being seduced into a life of prostitution.

She is banking on Soapstar Superstar turning her into a national treasure like it did to last year's winner, former Corrie hunk Richard Fleeshman, 17.

An insider said: "Gemma's been doing lots of sexy photo shoots but her main focus is as an actress. Going on Soapstar Superstar will be great for her.

"She hopes it will help people remember she's not just into the modelling, but is a great actress too."

Faith's boobs agony

COMIC Faith Brown is so weak from her two weeks in the jungle she is having trouble standing up because of her huge boobs.

She is finding it harder than most of the others to cope with life in the camp, particularly the lack of food, the heat and the sleepless nights.

And the big-chested star is so faint at times she almost topples over due to the weight of her enormous breasts.

Behind the scenes, security guards are having to help her out on tasks because she is having difficulty walking up hills or carrying things.

FAINT: Faith Brown

A show source said: "Faith is needing support and sometimes the security guards have helped her up hills and over bridges.

"Her boobs are now weighing her down because she is so weak."

"She topples over when she's tired."

Faith, 65, is not the only one needing help on the sly.

Freaky David Gest, 53, and Scott Henshall, 31, have had secret vitamin boosters because they are flagging after a fortnight in the jungle living mainly on just rice and beans.

TASK:
Matt gets stuck into the challenge

Matt's Busted thunderballs

VOTE: Willis was chosen

GRUMPY Jan Leeming finally dodged a Bush Tucker Trial yesterday after the celebrities were asked to decide among themselves who should be chosen.

They elected Matt Willis, 23, Jason Donovan, 38, and Malandra Burrows, 41, for a Thunderball test... being pushed down a hill in a giant plastic ball while baked beans, pancake syrup, tomatoes, tea and coffee were poured inside.

The celebs squealed with laughter as they tumbled down but managed to pick up just three stars.

Meanwhile, show chiefs were plotting to bring back the "jungle jail" to stir things up again. At least two unsuspecting contestants will be carted off to spend the night in a cell full of creepy crawlies.

Producers haven't decided whom to punish yet.

Rats

But those who have been breaking rules - such as peeing in the bush (Jason and Jan) and leaving food around which attracts rats (Scott) - could be the key targets.

A source said: "The prison is still there from last time.

It is quite a way from the main camp so no-one here has seen it. It's had a bit of a makeover but is still uncomfortable.

"This time, we are thinking of having bunk-beds in there.

"But the celebs chosen will have a sleepless night because their imaginations will run riot at all the sounds around them.

"This year, the producers are being very cruel."

Last year, former Emmerdale actress Sheree Murphy, 31, and ex Atomic Kitten girl Jenny Frost, 28, got the fright of their lives when they were carted off to the jail for one night.

SCOTT confessed he "ran up a huge bill" on his dad's credit card before entering the jungle.

COMIC Barbara Windsor sends Xmas cards of herself as the Queen Vic's Peggy.

SCOTT has so many clothes he keeps half at his parents' house.

EVICTEE Toby said that raunchy Lauren confessed to the gang that she was "gagging for it".

TOBY, 35, also revealed many of the celebs were feeling the strain of having to go without nookie. He added:

"I can't wait to spend time with my girlfriend Steph."

HIS pal Matt Willis revealed that he is terrified to do anything about his sexual angst under the sleeping bag in case he is caught.

BUT Jason said he wasn't suffering in the slightest going without nookie. He said: "I haven't done anything in here. I don't need to."

COMIC Faith's frizzy hair has left her looking like blonde star Debbie Harry.

DAVID'S been banging on the camera holes trying to strike up chats with the crews.

DAVID

HE gave the celebs a rousing speech to keep up their morale. A message of support from oddball Michael Jackson has sent him soaring - Dave's got it all going on.

JASON

PEEING in the bush could see the 80s heart-throb thrown in a jungle jail - but his die-hard fans are still desperate for him to win.

FAITH

SHE'S moaning she's tired from hauling her mammoth mammarys around the bush - at least the funnygirl has managed to get that bugbear off her chest.

MATT

STILL not letting his personality shine through enough to impress us. Better buck up his ideas a bit - or the viewers may decide it's time to Bust him out of there.

DEAN

THE pimply actor is not proving a viewers' fave - they didn't like him in Eastenders, and they don't really like him in the jungle, either. Get the message, Dean.

SCOTT

THE catty designer is still telling porkies to the gang about how hard he's tried in some of the trials - they'll be in frock-horror when they find out he's been exaggerating his efforts.

Illustration:
SCOTT CLISSOLD

MYLEENE

STILL a Klasse act, Mylene and her gorgeous curves are keeping us glued to the screen.

MALANDRA

PRETTY Malandra made a good fist of her Thunderball trial, getting three stars. Maybe that will make her a bit more ballsy.

JAN

SHE'S desperate for a man, and now Toby's been axed she'll be more desperate than ever. Told Ant and Dec if Toby was older and single she'd have bagged him for herself - but with all her moaning, he'd have to be deaf, too.

LAUREN

SHE'S keeping a sneaky jungle diary on the others and hopes to cash in when she gets out - devious!

PHINA

BITCHY Phina tried to console Dean by telling him his nomination had nothing to do with his acting skills - but it backfired and he took offence.

LAUREN IN KISS & TELL

Hack keeps jungle book plan secret

LAUREN Booth is hiding a secret from her pals - she's keeping a jungle diary.

And the 39-year-old journalist plans to flog the explosive warts-and-all log to the highest bidder when she comes out of the telly show.

Cherie Blair's half-sister has been given special permission by telly chiefs to sneak off to the Bush Telegraph every day for 10 minutes.

There she scribbles down her thoughts about sexy Mylene Klass, 28, and the rest of the gang.

The other celebs have no idea what she has been up to.

Stars are banned from bringing things like pens and pencils and paper into the Aussie Outback because they are regarded as luxuries.

Bitchy

But the Daily Star can reveal that Lauren has been given the green light by producers to keep a diary about her experiences on the ITV show.

Lauren slips off to the Bush Telegraph every afternoon to write her secret diary. Bosses leave a pen and a notepad for her.

After her bitchy comments on the show, she knows publishers will be fighting for the book.

She said freaky-looking David Gest, 53, had an "ironing board" face and claimed serial whiner Jan Leeming, 64, needed to "lighten up and get a man".

She also said that newcomer Dean Gaffney, 28, might be "a plant" and confessed she'd "lezz up the show" if she were gay.

A show source said: "Lauren is a journalist so she is good with words and knows how to give people a good read."

"She has not told anyone she is doing the diary because she thought it might create tension and suspicion, with people wondering what she was writing about them."

"They are going to get a mighty shock when they get out."

This isn't the first time one of the jungle stars has kept a diary. But it's the first time they have done it in secret.

Two years ago Janet Street Porter, 57, was allowed to write a jungle diary.

But everyone on the show knew about it and it was published in a broadsheet soon after she was evicted.

And last year Carol Thatcher, 54, made notes which the celebs saw and published her account.

JACKO'S BEST TO GEST

TEARFUL: Jason had letter from his kids

MICHAEL Jackson, 48, has been glued to I'm A Celeb and the singer is tipping his oddball friend David Gest, inset, to be the King of the Jungle.

The team was rewarded for retrieving the Celebrity Chest with messages from home.

While most received letters from their partners or children, David's came from Jackson's brother Tito, 53, and fifties screen siren Jane Russell, 85.

Tito wrote: "Michael was watching you on TV in London recently and told me 'That man never changes but I wish him all the best and would love to see him win the show. Rather him than me. Ha ha ha!'

Actress Jane wrote: "I wish you all the best and know you are a true survivor and know you will see it to the end because you are My David."

"I met up with Anne and Kirk Douglas and they were asking how you were doing."

Jason Donovan sobbed as he was shown a picture of his partner Angela and two children, Gemma and Zac.

Zac wrote: "Dear Daddy, I love you so much and I've lost another tooth. Love from Zac."

Radioactive particles found in London hotel

LAB WORK: Biotechnicians in a Russian research centre

MORE DEADLY THAN CYANIDE

■ by LAURA NEIL

THE poison which killed Alexander Litvinenko is 250million times more toxic than cyanide.

Polonium 210 is a naturally occurring radioactive material and is found in everything from photographic cleaning products to cigarettes.

But it's only when the substance is ingested into the body that it becomes a lethal killer.

Once ingested, the substance attacks the internal organs causing them to slowly shut down.

In graphic terms, the victim is quite literally "cooked from the inside out" and it took around three weeks to kill Mr Litvinenko.

Nottingham University's Prof David Ray said: "It is a very soluble salt and could have been added to any food or drink without the victim being any the wiser."

SUSHI BAR'S NUKE

after death of ex-KGB Alexander Litvinenko

SEARCH: Police on guard outside the Millennium Mayfair Hotel in London while forensics look for polonium. From left, President Putin, Alexander Litvinenko, his widow Marina, and right his tearful father Walter who attacked the Russian authorities for his death

RUSSIAN spy Alexander Litvinenko WAS the victim of a poison assassin.

He was killed by a massive dose of deadly radioactivity slipped into his food, doctors confirmed yesterday.

Large quantities of polonium 210 – billions of times more lethal than cyanide – were found in the KGB defector's body and at his home.

Some particles were found at a sushi bar and an hotel after he died in agony on Thursday night.

Blood

Mr Litvinenko, 43, spoke from "beyond the grave" yesterday to accuse Russia President Vladimir Putin of ordering a death squad of retired KGB killers to carry out the sophisticated assassination.

In a dramatic deathbed statement, read out by friend Alex Goldfarb, Litvinenko said "ruthless" Putin had blood on his hands and would have to live with what he'd done "for the rest of his life".

Establishing Polonium 210 as the cause of death caused the Government's war cabinet COBRA to rush into emergency session.

■ by GARY NICKS

Tony Blair ordered the top-level security team for emergency talks as relations between London and Moscow fell to a low not seen since the Cold War.

Britain last night asked Moscow to provide information to assist Scotland Yard's inquiries, said the Foreign Office. The Yard called in radioactive specialists, fearing contamination.

Mr Putin responded to his statement saying it was "nonsense".

And the Kremlin denied any involvement, saying his accusations were "sheer nonsense".

Mr Putin said it was a tragedy but said there was no proof Mr Litvinenko's death was "violent".

His death has been linked to a sinister group of ex-KGB men called Dignity and Honour.

The shadowy organisation, made up of former spies and hitmen, apparently offers itself for hire.

His name appeared on a hit-list four times in documents which allegedly led back to the group. There was another twist last night as Chelsea owner Roman Abramovich's name was mentioned. Mr Litvinenko accused the Russian billionaire and Blues boss of being too cosy to Russia's President Vladimir Putin.

Just before he was poisoned, he said Mr Abramovich had special links with the Kremlin and dubbed him "Putin's accountant" in claims not backed up by evidence. Mr Abramovich has always denied his and others' claims.

Tragedy

Scotland Yard said traces of Polonium were found at the Piccadilly sushi restaurant, the Millennium Hotel and at Mr Litvinenko's north London home.

The sushi restaurant was closed last night with police on guard.

Parts of the hotel were also closed so specialists could check the premises for contamination.

Polonium 210 is only dangerous if ingested and experts believe people who had contact with Mr Litvinenko are not in danger. They include his family, friends and staff at the London hospital where he was treated.

Mr Litvinenko's father Walter flew in from Russia three days ago to be at his dying son's bedside.

His widow Marina, 44, was too traumatised to speak about her husband's death yesterday.

But tearful Mr Litvinenko Sr accused the Russian regime of murdering his son.

He told reporters via an interpreter: "My son was killed by a little tiny nuclear bomb. It was so small that you could not see it."

"But the people who killed him have big nuclear bombs and missiles and those people should not be trusted."

He said his son died an "excruciating death" and added: "This regime, if we just let it go on, will get all of us."

Scotland Yard's counter-terrorism unit is investigating the death and radioactive specialists were last night searching Mr Litvinenko's three-bedroomed north London home for traces.

MESSAGE FROM THE GRAVE ...

■ I WOULD like to thank many people. My doctors, nurses and hospital staff who are doing all they can for me; the British Police who are pursuing my case with vigour and professionalism and are watching over me and my family.

■ I would like to thank the British Government for taking me under their care. I am honoured to be a British citizen.

I would like to thank the British public for their messages of support and for the interest they have shown in my plight.

■ I thank my wife, Marina, who has stood by me. My love for her and our son knows no bounds. But as I lie here I can distinctly hear the beating of wings of the angel of death. I may be able to give him the slip but I have to say my legs do not run as fast as I would like. I think, therefore, that this may be the time to say one or two things to the person responsible for my present condition.

■ You may succeed in silencing me but that silence comes at a price. You have shown yourself to be as barbaric and ruthless as your most hostile critics have claimed.

You have shown yourself to have no respect for life, liberty or any civilised value.

You have shown yourself to be unworthy of the trust of civilised men and women.

■ You may succeed in silencing one man but the howl of protest from around the world will reverberate, Mr Putin, in your ears for the rest of your life.

May God forgive you for what you have done, not only to me but to beloved Russia and its people.

SOPHIE BANNED

Soccer boss fella bars locker pics..

RIP 'EM OFF: Jordan

FOOTIE boss Simon Jordan has banned players pinning up pics of his girlfriend.

Crystal Palace stars plastered photos of gorgeous Sophie Anderton around the locker room.

But furious mobile phone tycoon Simon ordered them to take them down.

Flop

Jordan, 39, said: "The players stuck up posters of Sophie on the wall.

"I told them to take them down, but they didn't get fined for putting them up."

Sizzling Sophie, 29, who

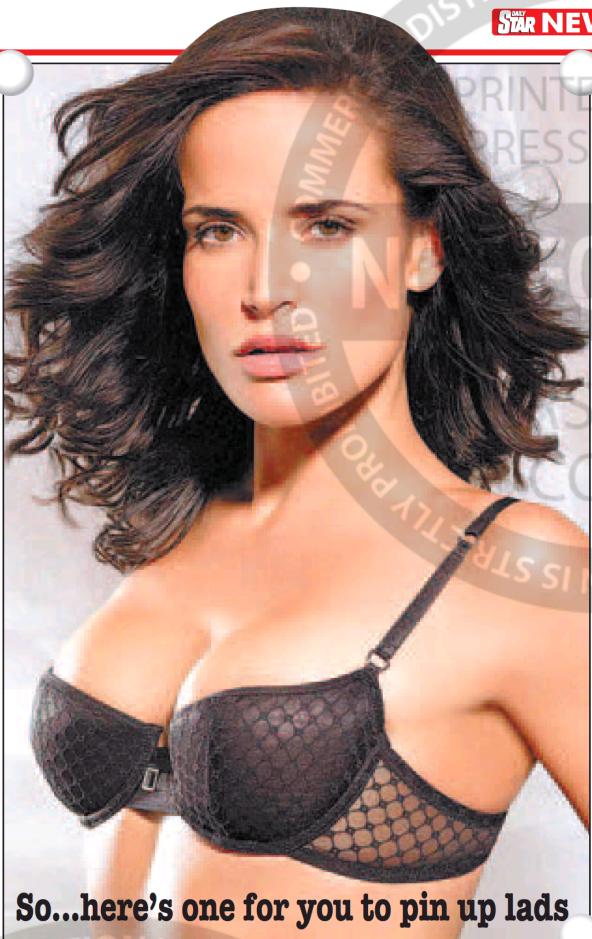

■ by LAURA NEIL

featured on reality flop Love Island this year, once glammed up Palace games by appearing alongside Jordan in the VIP area.

But she has been shunning the team after they plummeted towards relegation.

Jordan is not too keen on the attention she attracts anyway. He said scornfully: "There's paparazzi interest in Sophie but I have no interest in it. That sort of publicity is for the Jade Goodies of the world."

House of rising sum

MORE than 80,000 homeowners in England and Wales own property worth over £1 million.

Property millionaire numbers have increased by 32% with most living in London but the north-west had the second biggest rise - 37%.

Matt Wyles, of Portman Building Society, who did the study, said: "Plenty is being put into property."

Op off for 48th time

CANCER patient Dennis Burke has had his hospital appointment cancelled - 48 times.

Most times the 68-year-old found out only after he had struggled to reach the hospital.

He said: "I'm fed up with them messing me about."

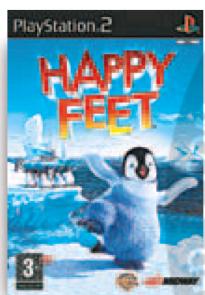

Scarborough NHS Trust said: "We've had booking problems but they're getting sorted."

Man killed by his car

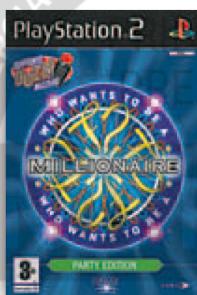

A MAN died after being run over by his car as he tried to stop it rolling down a steep driveway.

Police said the 56-year-old, from Epsom Downs, Surrey, was trapped underneath the vehicle.

He was freed by the emergency services and taken to St Helier Hospital, Carshalton, where he was pronounced dead.

FAVE LEONA FEARS FI X FACTOR

NAKED AMBITION: Craig MacDonald in TV clip

■ by CAMERON MILLAR

X FACTOR favourite Leona Lewis fears she won't make the final because fans think it's a fix.

The sexy singer, 21, is distraught about claims judge Simon Cowell has rigged the show for her to win.

And pals say she is worried she may be the victim of a hate campaign with fans determined to stop her winning.

A close pal of Leona said last night: "She can't get the fix claims out of her head and it is really getting to her."

"She is actually upset and fears fans won't vote for her, even though she has a stunning voice and the looks to go with it."

Rocker Ben Mills, 26 – Leona's chief rival for the prize of a £1million recording contract – has already threatened to quit the show because he felt Cowell, 47, was doing everything in his power to crown Leona the winner.

But Leona's pal added: "She knows her place in the final on December 16 is not the dead cert that everyone is telling her it is."

"She is actually quite a shy, humble girl and she takes nothing for granted."

Cheeky

"There have been a few shocks in the series so far and she is doing everything in her power to make sure she doesn't get a nasty surprise."

Leona and Ben take on Eton Road, Ray Quinn, 18, and Scottish duo The MacDonald Brothers tonight.

Meanwhile, the MacDonalda stripped off in a cheeky Austin Powers-style sketch for spin-off show The Xtra Factor.

Craig, 21, and Brian, 20, wandered naked round the X Factor house with only a couple of well-placed props to protect their modesty.

An insider said: "They will certainly pull in a few extra votes from the ladies judging by this clip."

• The main show is on ITV1 at 6.25pm tonight, with the results at 8.45pm.

FAVOURITE: But Leona fears she may be axed in fix storm

WINNER: Bianca Gascoigne

Island is cast away

■ by MARK JEFFERIES

■ ITV bosses have axed Celebrity Love Island – admitting it had turned out to be a £20million flop.

The reality show returned in the summer and was won by Bianca Gascoigne, 19, and Calum Best, 25.

Bosses dropped the word "celebrity" from the title and the format was altered in a bid to try and beat Channel 4 rival Big Brother.

■ But the final was watched by 4.4million viewers – down from 6.1million on last year. More than eight million people tuned in to see Pete Bennett, 24, win Big Brother.

ITV's director of TV Simon Shaps said: "I don't think the public appetite was strong enough for a third year."

• The show performed incredibly well in its first series. It did dent Big Brother that year.

Experts reckon Love Island cost ITV £20m.

Mr Shaps also declined to comment on speculation that ITV is trying to buy the contract to screen Big Brother.

COPS GRILL ROONEY OVER CLUB BUST-UP

FOOTIE hotshot Wayne Rooney was grilled by police yesterday after a photographer was elbowed in a boozy 5am bust-up.

The England and Manchester United ace went voluntarily to a police station with his solicitor.

It has been claimed that he hit 37-year-old photographer Russ Ward with such force that Ward was left doubled up in pain outside a nightclub.

Rooney, 21, was quizzed under caution but was neither arrested nor bailed.

A file is being prepared for the Crown Prosecution Service.

Seconds before the attack on Mr Ward, Rooney, 21, had left Manchester's Panacea club where he had attended an after-fight champagne party thrown by top boxer Joe Calzaghe, 34.

Guests

The world super-middleweight champ was celebrating on October 15 after retaining his title against Sakio Bika, 27, at the MEN Arena.

Other guests included Wayne's fiancée Coleen McLoughlin, 20, Girls Aloud babe

Sarah Harding, 25, and Coronation Street star Tupele Dorgu, 28.

Freelance snapper Russ did not need hospital treatment after the attack.

Meanwhile, it emerged yesterday that Rooney has splashed out £250,000 on a swish pad in Florida's latest celebrity hangout, Harbor Pointe.

He took Coleen to the area on their first foreign trip together when he was 17.

It's Lensey Lohan

LINDSAY Lohan thrilled dirty old men with her specs appeal on a boozy night in Tinseltown. Lensey – see what we did there? – visited Hollywood's Teddys bar. But the glasses were almost as pointless as her barely-there skirt. The raunchy brunette, 20, took them off to read the cocktail menu and put them back on to boogie.

Our four-eyed spy said: "She wanted to look a bit more intelligent to subvert her bimbo image." She needs some stronger lenses to see how much she failed.

Si's mobile home

SIMON Webbe has told us about his latest venture presenting the new weekly Mpop chart show on mobile network 3.

The singer, 27, will join Reggie Yates, 23, for the first show on December 1.

He said: "It'll be great. I am looking forward to it. I think you just have to try and do as many things as possible although I would never do reality TV."

Tickets for Simon's 18 UK tour dates went on sale yesterday and we hear they're selling like hotcakes.

WHO NOSE HAPPENED TO KATE?

IS there something Kate Moss nose that she'd like to share with us?

The cocaine-hoovering clothes-horse was snapped with a swollen hooter yesterday prompting speculation that she might have plumped for corrective surgery.

At the beginning of the month, Kate's nose looked perfectly normal.

But, a few days ago, the skinny squeeze was pictured with a large lump on her conk, and we're not talking about her dirty dandy Pete Doherty, 27.

Shades

Some were wondering whether 32-year-old ex-user Kate may have suffered a collapsed beak from her cocaine days – as did ex-addicts Daniella Westbrook, 32, and Tara Palmer-Tomkinson, 34.

Yesterday, the twitgle sneaked off to meet pals in London's King's Cross wearing dark shades.

Many Primrose Hill curtain-twitchers were tempted to conclude she'd had surgery.

Our man with the Kleenex said: "She kept her head down and wore big, dark glasses."

"You often get blackening around the eyes after a nose job, and the shades also draw attention from the nose." Kate was clearly bovered about her misshapen nose when she played a chat at the Little Britain charity performance earlier in the week.

She kept covering her face.

Our source added: "Kate is an ageing supermodel.

And she has to stay beautiful to keep her job. So a little tweak here and there is inevitable."

Mossy has fought a public battle with nose candy and successfully kicked the habit last year.

But the ravages of her rock 'n' roll lifestyle have taken their toll and she has admitted she is concerned her modelling crown will be taken by younger girls including Gisele Bundchen, 25, known as The Boobs from Brazil.

If Kate's dilemma continues, maybe she'll be saddled with "The Conk from Croydon" tag.

BEAK TWEAK: Kate's nose was OK, left, but then sported a lump

Aggie's bag man

CHRISTINA Aguilera's moves weren't the only dirty things at her fruity Manchester gig.

Xtina's unlikely fan, Man United ace Cristiano Ronaldo, 21, got some dirty looks, thanks to the dodgy man bag he brandished.

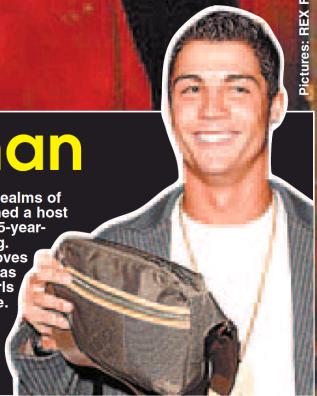

Surely there can't be anything embarrassing about being caught at a camp pop gig, brandishing feminine accessories when you're a macho football hunk?

We're open-minded, but the footie fella encountered new realms of campness when he joined a host of other celebs at the 25-year-old's Back to Basics gig.

An insider said: "He loves a bit of Aggie. But he was surprised how many girls and gay men were there. It's difficult to keep up the tough-guy image in that sort of crowd."

And if you can't beat 'em...

BEATEN TO DEATH BY 'ROAD RAGE MANIAC'

PROBE: Police experts in Harlington High Street yesterday

A "CRAZED" killer in a smart suit battered a motorist to death with his bare hands yesterday.

Six other people, including paramedics and police officers, were injured in the bloody violence.

One victim was fighting for his life in hospital last night.

Fury erupted in what was believed to be an early morning road rage incident in Harlington High Street, west London.

The Asian motorist's body was left lying in the road following a savage beating.

Then his attacker – allegedly a 6ft Tunisian, smartly dressed in a suit – turned on two female paramedics who tried to reach the motorist, forcing them to barricade themselves in to their ambulance. Two drivers pulled up to approach the man. One was assaulted and suffered a fractured skull.

■ by IAIN BURCHELL

Then the man is claimed to have lashed out at other passers-by, including two women. Police said the man "attacked anyone who came near him".

Blood

One shocked witness described how he fled in terror as the man towered over the battered motorist "with a mad look in his eyes".

Later, blood could be seen spattered over the bumper of the dead man's abandoned Lexus car, sealed inside a police cordon.

No weapons were found at the scene.

The killer is believed to have broken into the nearby Linaza cafe to make a cup of tea and watch cartoons just before the violence erupted soon after 4am. He was walking along the street when he was involved in the confrontation with the motorist, who has not yet been named.

Witness Gary Webb said: "I saw a man lying in the road. He was clearly dead. I went to help."

"There was an African man standing over him. His eyes were wild and he was really staring. I felt in danger. I got back on my bike and sped away."

Several police officers were injured as they struggled to arrest a man.

He was later being questioned at Uxbridge police station where a doctor was assessing his mental state.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said: "It sounds as if this was a terrifying situation. We retain an open mind, regarding any motive at this early stage."
